Robertson and Hanson Score Bolshevism In Two Muskogee Speeches

Ole Hanson, the famous anti-Bolshevik ex-mayor of the city of Seattle, and Governor J. B. A. Robertson, speaking before large audiences at the Muskogee State Fair last Friday, gave the people of this state an insight into the radical conditions prevailing in the state that they have probably never had before. They are said by the press to be the boldest replies to the Bolshevik element of the state ever made. A dispatch from Muskogee under date of yesterday, special to the News, says:

Governor J. B. A. Robertson of Oklahoma, and Ole Hanson, the famous Seattle Nemesis of Bolshevism, occupied the stage in Muskogee yesterday, each making stirring addresses before the Rotary Club at noon, at the Oklahoma Free State Fair grounds in the afternoon, and before the Aero Club at night.

Both the governor and Mr. Hanson made stirring American addresses. Governor Robertson, in one talk, said he had encountered I. W. W.ism even in the halls of courthouses and the statehouse. He accused business men and the citizenry generally in some Oklahoma cities including Muskogee—of lacking the nerve to deal with emergencies. Along the same line, Mr. Hanson declared that outlaws and anarchy, I. W. W.ism and Bolshevism, should be dealt with mercilessly—stamped out with machine guns and clubs, even if it became necessary "to kill 1,000 men or 500,000 men" to do it.

Proposing such a step for the first time, Governor Robertson said in his night address before the Aero club that the progress of the times demanded that the Oklahoma constitution be rewritten. He said the document upon which the law of the state is based is so antiquated and obsolete that a new one is needed to assure the advance of the state.

Selective immigration was suggested by Mr. Hanson as the proper and only available solution for the unrest and nervousness of the day in America. Bolshevism and anarchy are in the saddle in the United States now, he said, to a degree not even suspected by the average citizen. Preponderance of foreign-born and foreign-thinking masses—men who should not even be allowed to set foot in America—this is the chief contributing cause for this condition, he believes. Congress should immediately revise the immigration laws, he said.

Both Governor Robertson and Mr. Hanson gave unstinted praise for the Oklahoma Free State Fair which they visited in the afternoon.

There are some quotations from the speeches that sounded the tocsin of patriotism in such terms as to bring every thinking man in the state to his senses. Commenting editorially on the address of the governor, the Muskogee Times-Democrat says:

The Governor Speaks Plainly.

Governor Robertson gave Muskogee business men a jolt Friday when he told them that in the recent strike disturbances here they had been more or less guilty of encouraging violation of law by putting "Fair to Union Labor" cards in their windows. The governor drew a clear distinction between support of organized labor in securing its just rights and in support of lawlessness and rioting. He also created a sensation when he made the statement that all I. W. W. are not found among the laboring men, but are also found in county court houses and in the statehouse itself. For the governor to make the plain statement that there is an I. W. W. holding office in this state is startling, to say the least. But the governor was not mining words and apparently would have been willing to call the official by name if requested.

The point the governor drove home was that the time has come when men must stand for the staunch observance of law under all circumstances and that cowardice in business must be overcome to the extent that men in business must not be afraid to stand out in the open and declare themselves against any form of lawlessness, whether it be by individuals or by mobs. He also sounded a warning that unless this is done the immediate future will bring a condition in which life and property will not be safe, there will be no respect for the law and its enforcement, in fact that we are just now on the dividing line between law and anarchy, and unless men have courage to stand by their convictions the result is uncertain.

THE SPIRIT OF AMERICAN LIBERTY WELCOMES KING ALBERT

Luxury Demand In This Country Has Not Abated

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Public demand for luxuries continues unabated, according to the September report from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago on business conditions in the Seventh District. In the language of the statement, luxuries "are being gobbled up faster than they can be produced."

"The people will have jewelry and they want the costliest," the report continues. "The watch factories cannot keep up with orders, partly because it is impossible to obtain materials and deficient labor. Prices would go higher but for the policy of one dominant factor, stated thus: 'We do not want to see this vicious circle of advanced prices and costs go on any longer.'"

The demand for silks, the report says, "is characterized as 'extravagant.'"

Evidence is seen in the Middle West of "a rather marked disposition to 'capitalize' present prices and conditions, notwithstanding the fact that they are due primarily to the war." This is indicated, it says, by the land movement where present owners of land, seeking to capitalize present prices of farm products, are exacting higher rentals and holding for higher acreage prices, and by the appeal of the Illinois Agricultural Association and the Indiana Federation of Farmers to hold their livestock and grain until a "same market has re-established itself." If the latter movement becomes widespread, it is declared, it would in a measure defeat efforts to readjust living prices to a lower level.

Efforts to use the cost of living as a lever to obtain high wages and short hours, "thus curtailing production and tending to perpetuate the existing high living costs" are said to make for unrest, and manufacturers "report an attitude among wage earners not to work full time when they have plenty of money in their pockets."

But business in the district is said to be "very good," and "retailers" are selling all the goods they can get at high prices, making enough "pay to cover the increased cost of doing business."

"The demand for the best qualities of merchandise is insistent and, regardless of newspaper headlines, the people appear to have money in pocket to pay for whatever they fancy."

Episcopalians Who Are Divorced Cannot Remarry

By the Associated Press
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Clergymen of the Episcopal church will be prohibited from officiating at the marriage of any person who has been divorced, if the general convention of the denomination to open here, Oct. 8, adopts the report of a joint commission of bishops, clergy and laymen.

The report, signed by the bishops of North Carolina, Chicago, Long Island, Lexington and Vermont, proposes a new Canon which reads: "No marriage shall be solemnized in this church between parties, either of whom has a husband or wife still living, who has been divorced for any cause arising after marriage."

A minority report, signed by the Rev. Leighton Parks, rector of St. Bartholomew's church, New York, and a member of the commission, would make the Canon read: "No minister, knowingly, after the due enquiry, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has been or is the husband or wife of any other person then living from whom he or she has been divorced."

A similar proposal before the general convention of 1916 was adopted by a majority of the clerical votes in the House of Deputies but was defeated by a narrow margin of lay votes. The House of Bishops did not reach a vote on the matter.

Under the present Canon law of the church the innocent party to a divorce may be married by an Episcopal clergyman if the bishop, after an examination of the court records and consultation with his legal advisor, gives his consent. But even then no clergyman is compelled to officiate at such a marriage.

The proposed legislation makes no distinction between the innocent and the guilty, absolutely prohibiting Episcopal clergymen from solemnizing the marriage of divorced persons.

MILK OF HUMAN KINDNESS.

We said a word a few days ago concerning a minister working in this district on starvation wages. The Men's Bible Class bought him a suit, overcoat, shoes, hat, etc., this morning. These noble men bought him seventy or eighty dollars worth of wearing apparel. Now he has a boy 13 or 14 who needs a suit and shirts, hat and shoes. KENDALL ROMPS ON EAST CENTRAL

GRIDSTERS FROM ADA FIGHT HARD BUT ARE UNABLE TO CHECK KENDALL COLLEGE'S ATTACK.

Special to the News:
TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—Playing in a sea of mud and water, and with the rain descending in torrents, Kendall college gridsters defeated the East Central normal eleven here yesterday 60 to 0. Despite difficulty in handling the ball and the slippery field, the game was featured by several spectacular forward passes and numerous brilliant broken field runs.

As was expected East Central furnished formidable opposition to the Kendall players and never let up in their efforts to hold their heavier and faster opponents. However, the visitors were unable to gain on Kendall, making first down but once, that due to a pass, while even with the entire Kendall squad used, including the youngest substitutes, the normals were unable to hold the offensive attack of the locals.

It was the final Kendall game before meeting the Oklahoma university eleven at Norman next Saturday, and Kendall followers are confident the local collegians will put up a great battle at Norman, judging by their work yesterday. Time and again Kendall backs skirted the ends or tore through the line for long gains and their handling of the aerial game, in view of the wet ball, and field, was splendid. That the defense was effective is shown by the inability of East Central to make first downs with the exception of the above mentioned forward pass.

THE GAME IN DETAIL.

By News' Special Service
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—"Alaska can pay the nation's war debt." That's the new slogan of Uncle Sam's last pioneer country to the north.

Not only can Alaska pay the nation's debt, but its people are anxious to do so.

All they need to do it is more men and some of the government's money invested in development of natural resources.

Untold wealth in raw gold, silver, copper and other minerals lies buried in the mountains of Alaska, where few men have ever set foot. If properly developed, that wealth, dug from the bowels of the earth, will, if the income tax collector does his duty, pay the nation's debt in full.

During the war Alaska's productivity almost reached a standstill. Now, however, the eyes of the government are again being turned on this comparatively virgin country, and the eyes of the people of Alaska are being turned on Washington.

Here's why Alaska can pay the war debt of the United States: It has an area of 586,400 square miles, extending from the 54th degree of north latitude to the 75th degree. If those figures don't mean much to you these will: Alaska's area is greater than twenty of the 48 states of the union put together!

Its taxable wealth today is less than that of the smallest state of the 48—but its potential wealth is far greater than that of the 20 states mentioned!

Alaska's wealth has only been scraped off the surface. Its population in 1900 was only 63,592, and in 1918 it was officially given as 64,984—an increase of only 1,392 in 18 years. But in reality, the war, which took nearly all the men from Alaska, cut its population in half. These men are now returning, and trying to induce others to return with them.

Once Alaska has the population its resources will support, it will be the richest section of the United States.

And day light saving must have originated in Alaska, for there they have 22 hours of daylight in summer time!

To show how easily Alaska can support a population of many millions, officials of Alaska bureaus of the government call attention to the fact that it is in the same latitude as a section of European Russia which is smaller than Alaska, but has a population of 5,553,000. Included in this section are the cities of Petrograd and Archangel, as well as all the largest cities of Russia.

All of Sweden lies in practically the same latitude as Alaska. In that country wheat, rye and other grains, potatoes, vegetables of all kinds and livestock thrive.

Yet Alaska in 1900 had only 12 improved farms, with a total acreage of 159. In 1910 it had 222 improved farms, with an average of 191 acres to the farm, and with a total valuation, including holdings and livestock, of $1,468,402. Since 1910 the number of farms has vastly increased, but there are still miles and miles of fertile soil waiting for the hand of the settler.

BRITISH RAILWAY STRIKE SETTLED; LEADERS PLEADED

By the Associated Press
LONDON, Oct. 6.—Leaders of the National Union of Railway Men, who directed the strike which was settled yesterday, declare their satisfaction with the arrangement in messages to the Herald, the organ of Union Labor.

C. T. Cramp, president of the union said: "While we did not obtain the formula which was set forth in the strike resolution, we obtained terms equally good which will give the railway men the same thing in effect. Our men have broken the back of the first attack made upon the entire working class and no doubt this splendid stand will save the workers from a degraded standard of life."

STARVING JEWS STUDY TALMUD

War, and constant fear, and widespread disease, and general starvation have not been enough to make the unfortunate Jews of Poland and the rest of eastern Europe forsake their ancient love of education and orthodox religious training, according to Sholom Asch, the Yiddish poet, who recently returned to America after several months in eastern Europe, as a commissioner for American Jewish relief agencies.

Jewish schools are still in operation in towns where the children have had no food for two days. Ragged and hungry little boys, barefooted or with their feet wrapped in old rags, whose one meal of the day is the cup of soup that they get from American relief workers, bend their heads over the Talmud in every little town in Poland. Returning refugees hunt a place for a synagogue and some kind of a school for their children, before they so much as find a roof to sleep under, according to Mr. Asch.

"Neither the epidemics of war, nor the ever-present fear of pogroms, nor the pangs of hunger have so far been able to break the Jewish spirit, or to extinguish the light of Jewish faith," Mr. Asch declared, upon his return. "Not only did the rabbis and the heads of the great synagogues of Telz, Slobodki, Kovno, and other places in eastern Europe, at once reopen their schools and resume teaching, when they returned from exile, but in every little town to which the Jews returned, their first concern was for the education of their children."

Nor are the myriads of orphans forgotten. Thousands of these youngsters live and sleep on the streets. There are 75,000 of them in eastern Europe now, a number far greater than the established Jewish orphanages are able to care for. In Poland alone there are 500,000 Jewish youngsters whose destitute parents are unable to feed them, and who depend upon American Jewish relief agencies for the very necessities of life.

Louis Marshall is the chairman of the American Jewish Relief Committee, the largest and most important Jewish relief organization in the United States, which is asking a total of $35,000,000 in order to look after these children, as well as the starving Jewish elders in eastern Europe, during the coming year.

Other prominent Jews of the committee are Jacob H. Schiff, Nathan Straus, Judge Julian W. Mack, Felix M. Warburg, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Arthur Lehman, all of New York; Dr. Cyrus Adler and Jacob D. Litt of Philadelphia, and Julius Rosenwald of Chicago.

HOOVER AS NEXT U. S. PRESIDENT

PROFESSIONAL POLITICIANS, HOWEVER, OPPOSE MAN WHO MADE US SAVE FOOD WHILE AT WAR.

By HARPER LEECH.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The president to be elected in 1920 should be—

A man who has proved he can do things.

A man who is above narrow partisanship.

A man who understands America and yet has a world-wide grasp of foreign affairs.

Friends of Herbert C. Hoover think he is just the man for the job.

Hoover has just quit the biggest job of economic engineering ever done. If Uncle Sam will insert a want-ad, Hoover may answer it. He will not apply for the job.

Hoover's accomplishments in keeping the world from starving is too recent to need recounting. He has now come back to the United States with a clear vision of world needs, and a constructive program for the whole race.

His speech to the metropolitan engineers in New York showed that he has positive ideas as to America's future. His aims coincide with the dominant wishes of America's most practical men, his friends assert.

Voice For Americanism.

This man, denounced as an internationalist by pettifoggish politicians three years ago, is urged today by his admirers as the clearest voice for Americanism, for individualism, for the American ideas of civilization, which can be heard and amid the babel of false and windy doctrines which has spread over a world debilitated by war, and impatient with the gospel of hard work and civic honesty.

Practically Hoover is a good bet for either party, but the professional politicians of neither party will have him. He doesn't belong. It is betraying no confidence to say that many of his friends whom he gathered about him in the food administration have tried to make a candidate out of him. They watched the political angle at every turn, and lost no opportunity to put their chief "in right" with the press and the public.

Certainly they achieved for him a great popularity with the more intelligent segments of the American people. Over 40 per cent of the American people, the 40 per cent who really tell the others how to vote, showed their belief in him by stunting themselves three times a day when he asked them to.

But Hoover has probably offended most of the class and block votes which the professional politicians always take into account when figuring probable election results. In the arithmetic of the professional state-maker the plain garden variety of American never looms large.

State-makers are cautious of him. In the first place Hoover has never been one of them and they don't know how to take him.

The only time he ever came in contact with the present ruling politicians in the G. O. P. organization was at a private dinner shortly after his return from Europe in 1917. They talked with him until early morning and came away decidedly of the opinion that he was no party man. In the remote period when he lived over here, he had been a republican, about as much as Grant was once a democrat. He lived in what was then a republican state—California, and most of the "nice people out there were republicans and naturally Hoover was, and that was all.

From that time on, he became more and more identified with Wilson, and his world policies. The closer he got to Wilson the further he got away from the men who run the G. O. P. nominating machinery.

Today he is anathema to the radical nationalist faction of the G. O. P., like Johnson and Borah.

The internationalist republicans of the Taft-Wickersham school represent the business interests, which used to dominate the G. O. P. organization, more nearly than the Hays-Penrose-Lodge outfit, but they are out of power and will probably not be able to corral many delegates. Members of the Hays crowd say that even if they did get a foothold in the convention they would not be for Hoover. They want somebody from New York or Ohio—somebody more like themselves.

The Penrose machine intends to make a campaign in 1920 on a pseudo cry of "Americanism."

To capitalize the Irish dissatisfaction with the Wilson policies they intend to twist the lion's tail quite a bit. Hoover naturally doesn't fit in there.

The same foes for the appeal to the Italians, and other disgruntled race groups. As far as they can, they will also reach out for the farmer.

The professional politicians believe Hoover is unpopular with the farmers—especially the wheat growers.

The professional democratic politicians regard Hoover with similar disfavour. They want the Irish backing. They fear the charge of British influence.

I.O.O.F. TO BUILD TEMPLE IN TULSA

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DIRECTORS PLAN TEMPTING OFFER TO GET TEN STORY BUILDING.

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 5.—Steps to locate here the state home and headquarters of the Odd Fellows lodge, one of the largest fraternal orders in Oklahoma, were taken Saturday by directors and Tulsa members of the lodge. A committee appointed by the lodge to select a site for the erection of a state Odd Fellows temple appeared before the chamber of commerce directors to find out what inducements the city could offer in case Tulsa was decided on as the place of location.

Directors of the chamber of commerce appointed four of their members headed by Clarence B. Douglass, to consider the matter. A committee of local Odd Fellows, headed by M. L. Poundstone, were also named to assist in deciding what Tulsa can offer for the temple which is planned to be a ten story office building in the heart of the city. A sum of one million dollars will be expended to construct it according to the lodge committee.

Besides Tulsa the lodge is considering Oklahoma City and Muskogee as probable location points. Decision is to be made at a meeting scheduled to be held next week by the grand lodge.

There are between fifty and sixty thousand members of the three links in Oklahoma. Delegates representing these fraternal brothers will come to Tulsa each year when state meetings are held in case the temple is located here.

According to Mr. Poundstone, Tulsa is preparing to make such a tempting offer to the lodge that "she is certain to bring home the bacon."

The committee of the lodge which called on the chamber of commerce consisted of James A. Phelps, district judge of El Reno; W. M. Malone, vice-president of the First State Bank of Vinita, and H. F. Carmichael, of Sayre.

Open Shop Will Be Boosted at Labor Meeting

By FREDERICK KEBBY.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—A set of principles upon which it is hoped to secure agreement at the "round table" conference which meets October 6, has been drawn up.

The salient "points" in this program are: profit sharing; the Rockefeller "industrial representation" plan; the "open shop"; representation for workers on boards of directors; and some form of universal pensions and insurance funds.

Profit sharing will be urged as a means to interest the worker in the industry which employs him, thus cutting down the "labor turnover."

The industrial representation plan will be urged in lieu of the labor union demand for "collective bargaining," on the ground that industrial representation gives a voice to every employee whether union or non-union.

The "open shop" declaration will be coupled with an assertion that there will be no discrimination against union men. Minority representation on boards of directors will be proposed to allow workers some voice in the control of policies. And there will be a proposal that the existing pension and insurance funds maintained shall be turned over either to the state or to some semi-official agency to administer, so that a man may change his job without losing his pension or insurance.

Public Side to Join With Capital.

On this program it is understood that practically all of the men selected by the president to represent the "public" will join with the representatives of "capital." If agreement of these two groups can be secured, the men who are chiefly responsible for the appointments will feel that the labor representatives will either be forced to acquiesce, or else lose the support of public opinion.

It was with a view to securing agreement upon some such program that most of the men appointed to represent the "public" were chosen.

Most of the names in the public's list of representatives were suggested by Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane.

Lane believes that the control of the conference is wholly a matter of public opinion.

If two-thirds of the delegates making up the conference (those representing capital and those appointed as representing the public) can be pledged to the program as outlined, it will be urged that labor should not hold back, although some of the principles outlined are clearly opposed to trades union policy.

Compromise Urged on Union Men.

The labor leaders will be urged to compromise for the sake of writing an industrial charter that will do away with industrial warfare.

The men who are behind this plan are counting on a single factor to swing the Gompers labor men into line—and that is the influence of the president with Samuel Gompers.

They believe that the president at the proper time will urge Gompers to support the program that has been outlined, and they think the president's pressure will be strong enough to be effective.

Must Find Substitute For Socialism Says Mr. Hoover, War Food Expert

Henry L. Sanders, toastmaster at the dinner of the American Society of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers at the Waldorf recently, raised his patent leather shoe and kicked Herbert Hoover's hat into the air, when, in his opening remarks, he referred to the former food administrator as "fit to guide the ship of state."

Each one of the 1,200 diners immediately joined in a spontaneous demonstration over the obvious suggestion.

Mr. Hoover said in his speech: "My first conviction is that this whole philosophy of socialism is bankrupting itself from a startling quarter in the extraordinary lowering of productivity or industrial commodities to a point that, until the recent realization of this bankruptcy, was below the necessity for continued existence of their millions of people."

Mr. Hoover declared that the present conditions in Europe are not strictly the outgrowth of war conditions, but rather the culmination of the last century's struggle for fairer political and economic conditions.

Marxian socialism, he pointed out, had favored all of Europe before the war. During the war the economic effort was sustained by the patriotic stimulus and by the injection of women into industry.

Two Phases of Socialism.

But with the passing of the war conditions, he said, Europe again turned to socialism in two phases: bolshevism which communized property over night, and the legislative nationalization of industry.

The outstanding result of nearly a year of this has been a falling off in production until today there are in Europe 100,000,000 people who cannot be sustained from European production. This fall in production he attributed almost wholly to social ferment and unrest.

Taking the case of Russia, he showed that despite the political sovereignty of the old regime, which kept the vast majority in ignorance and servility, all but a small minority were well housed. They were able to produce not only enough for this, but enough to make Russia the greatest exporter in the world.

Then he continued: "Socialism was brought in overnight at the hands of a small minority of intellectual dilettantes and criminals and this tyranny of minority, more terrible even than the old, has now had nearly two years in which to effect the conversion of the wicked competitive system into the blissful of communism. Two-thirds of the railways and three-fourths of the rolling stock that they control are out of operation."

Crime Runs Wild.

The whole population is without any normal comforts of life and plunged into the most grievous famine of centuries. Its people are dying at the rate of hundreds of thousands monthly from starvation and disease. Its capital city has diminished in population from nearly 2,000,000 to less than 600,000. The streets of every city and village have run with blood of executions, nor have these executions been confined to the so-called middle and upper classes, for latterly the opposition of the workmen and farmers to this regime has brought them also to the firing squad in appalling numbers.

"If we examine the recent proclamation of this group of mixed idealists and murderers, we find a radical change in their economic and social ideas. They have abandoned the socialization of the land, for they find the farmer will not produce for payment in high flown and aristocratic phrases. They have re-established a differential wage in an attempt to stimulate exertion and ambition of skilled labor."

Russia Has Supplies.

"The apologists of this debacle are telling us that it is due to the allied blockade, and to various other oppositions, but anyone with a rudimentary knowledge of Russia knows that they did have within their borders ample supplies of food, coal, oil, wool, flax, cotton and metals, and the factories with which to work them in abundance, and that their sole deficiency is human effort."

It required but three months for the better educated and more intelligent working people of Budapest to realize the fearful abyss into which they had been plunged. It was solely due to the efforts of the trade unions in Budapest that the bolshevists were thrown out of Hungary."

Speaking of the nationalization of industry by legislation he said: "There was effective socialization of vast sections of industry during the war. The only partial success of these measures in war was due to the great patriotic impulse of war. These war impulses have been lost, and these organizations of constantly decreasing efficiency even in war now face disaster from reduced productivity."

Coal Industry An Example.

"There is no better example of this than the coal industry of Europe. Production has fallen from a rate of 600,000,000 tons per annum at the armistice to a rate of 45,000,000 tons recently, and production today is at such an ebb as to jeopardize the entire social fabric."

"I am convinced that the greatest proportion of European leaders of socialism today to some extent realize this bankruptcy and are endeavoring to cover a retreat with loud complaints as to the failure from other causes. Nevertheless, this realization is bringing the turn of the tide and through it Europe is on the road to economic recovery—if she gets peace."

"The whole of these various sorts of socialism are based on one primary conception, and that is that the productivity of the human being can be maintained under the impulse of altruism and that the selection of the particular human for his most productive performance can be made by some superimposed bureaucracy. Their weakness is the disregard of the normal day to day primary impulse of the human animal: that is, self-interest for himself or for his family and home, with a certain addition of altruism, varying with his racial instinct and his degree of intelligence."

Competition Ignored.

"They fail to take into account also that there is but one sufficiently selective agent for human beings in that infinite specialization of mind and body necessary to maintain the output of the intricate machinery of production and that is the primary school of competition."

"I believe it was necessary for the world to have this demonstration. It is not necessary, however, that we of the United States, now that we have witnessed these results, need plunge our own population into these miseries and into a laboratory for experiment in foreign social diseases."

"Bankruptcy of the socialist idea, however, does not relieve us from the necessity of finding a solution to the primary question which underlies all this discontent, and that primary question is the better division of the products of industry and the steady development of higher productivity."

Substitute Needed.

"A definite American substitute is needed for these disintegrating theories of Europe. It must be founded on our national instincts and upon the normal development of our national institutions. It must be founded, too, upon the fundamental fact that every section of this nation, the farmer, the industrial worker, the professional man, the employer, all absolutely interdependent upon each other in this lack of maximum production and the better distribution of its results. It must be founded upon the maximum exertion of every individual within his physical ability and upon the reduction of waste, both nationally and individually."

"We can well see a vivid confirmation in Europe of the fundamental economic principle that the standard of living is the direct quotient of the amount of commodities produced; that we must secure a maximum production of the industrial machine if we wish to keep our population in the standards of living of our people."

"Our sister civilization in Europe is today recovering from a great illness. The many new democracies that we have inspired are striving for our ideals. We alone have the economic and moral reserve with which to carry our neighbor back to strength. To do this is also true Americanism."—New York Sun.

THE RATTLE OF SABRES.

Again we hear the muttering of Mars—this time along the Adriatic. Fiume has been seized by Italian subjects and southern Europe is aflame from Piedmont to the Danube. The Italian forces stand full armed on the frontiers of Jugoslavia, while the latter people, white with wrath, are ready to rush to arms.

Behind the marches of the South Slav country lie millions of kindred people, inhabiting the wastes of Serbia, the mountains of Monte Negro, and the valleys of Thessaly. Beyond these are the Hungarian millions nerved to desperation by famine's fangs and the ravages of Roumanian armies. A hundred thousand soldiers of Ferdinand's nation are already on the march. And beyond all these are the hordes of the Muscovite rabid with the red insanity of unexampled butcheries. A single spark may start a conflagration that will reach from Brindisi to the harbors of Kamchatka.

Another world war or a war covering any considerable portion of the world would almost bring civilization to its end. Yet such a possibility looms large on the horizon of the immediate future. The only power that bears any promise of averting this supreme calamity is the council of Paris, which may by a show of superior force overawe the rabid elements of Latin and Slavic Europe. Such council is being denounced today by half the American senate and the league of nations is held up to contemptuous scorn, yet the only hope the world holds is that the allied nations may by a temporary league be able to avert the threatening storm. Unless the free nations exercise co-operation for peace, now and in the future, the world is headed for the depths.

Six thousand years of mutiny, murder and massacre have demonstrated the inability of nations to maintain the peace of the world. The present system is either productive of wars or cannot prevent them. A league of nations might be a failure—no one can lift the veil of the future and read the story of unborn years. But the league is the only hope and apparently the world's last hope. If not the league, then the deluge.

We agreed with many thousand other citizens of Oklahoma in regretting the attack on Senator Reed at Ardmore, but we regret infinitely more that the governor of this state has seen fit to defend the senator's assailants. It is admitted that of all the men who have made the president's burdens almost unbearable, Reed is the greatest offender. But there is absolutely no defense for those who violated every precept of law and courtesy in assaulting Reed at Ardmore. We believe that the governor has hastily done a very ill advised thing in attempting to justify those violators and has done the state a grave injury by taking the position he has. We further believe that Governor Robertson will soon see that he has committed an error and will finally regret it deeply.

Reed of Missouri was not hurt by the eggs that smeared him at Ardmore Wednesday night. It was Ardmore that got the smear. The entire state of Oklahoma has suffered and every good citizen of the state will condemn the tactics employed by the Ardmore thugs. No matter how much one may censure the dog in the manger policy of the man from Missouri during war times, he is a senator, an American citizen, and has a right to be heard. Those lawless spirits who attacked him have done an evil thing.

Now it develops that Oklahoma and Arizona are the only states that refused to accept federal aid for road building. Oklahoma loses her little six and a half million dollars besides the seven million wasted on dust roads, but we have in cold storage the promise of "something better," which the road opponents swore by the hoof of the wild goat they would give us if the road bonds should be voted down.

Strike orders and company announcements about the big steel mills are issued in nine different languages. No matter what kind of melting apparatus they keep about the big mills they evidently do not keep a melting pot.

There is really no reason for surprise that Senator Reed's expenses in Oklahoma should be paid by the Republicans. They had to be paid and who ought to have paid them unless those who profited most by his visit?

All signs indicate that the Republicans are going to handle this reconstruction in the same highly capable manner that they handled the one of the later sixties.

The State Press

Muskogee Times-Democrat: And there are some persons who smell office-holding plums in the Plumb plan.

Tulsa World: The young man on North Main, after looking over the display of stock in the beauty shop windows, wonders how much of his lady friend's is real.

Tulsa World: The law does some queer things. A Fort Smith man sold bottles of tea marked whisky. It is against the law to sell whisky but is perfectly legal to sell tea. But for selling tea the fellow was given two years in the penitentiary, while on another charge, for selling real whisky, he was also sentenced to a year in the penitentiary. Of course both convictions were entirely right and in the spirit of the law. The real significance of the incident is in the apparent proof it affords that when any man sets out to tamper with society's intentions he is courting serious trouble.

Oklahoma Ledger: Our friend, Geo. H. Foster, editor of the Wagoner County Record, tells us in his last issue that he put on some cheap but clean, clothes, and laid away his costly togs to beat old H. C. L., but that in three days only one lady in Wagoner would speak to him on the streets, his ostracism being complete. Desperate and disheartened, he put on his glad rags again, and encouraged by the smiles and nods of the ladies, he immediately ordered a $65 silk underwear suit to further increase his popularity. Good stroke—but what worries us is how the ladies on the streets know that George is wearing a $65 silk underwear suit, huh?

If there is a man in either house of the national congress who ought to be retired as unfitted for the place, it is Senator Gore of Oklahoma. If Oklahoma has a man fitted by temperament, character and training to succeed Gore, the man is Scott Ferris, now in the lower house of the congress from this state. Ferris is one man, long a public servant, with whose record we find no fault, whose loyalty and devotion has never been questioned, whose mind is big and broad enough to enable him to intelligently deal with the great questions that must confront a senator and whose character and moral fibre spill courage and right. If the anti-Gore element and it represents a majority of us will center on Ferris, and see that all the lesser lights keep out of the race, Ferris's record of playing to the galleries and lip service will be past history. MISSOURI LEGION MEN ASK ADDITIONAL PAY

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Oct. 6.—Selection of state headquarters and the matter of asking the state legislature for an additional bonus for all former service men of Missouri are expected to be the two chief subjects at the first state convention of the Missouri commandery of the American Legion, which opened here today. Indications were that five hundred delegates would attend. Streets and buildings of Jefferson City are decorated in honor of the convention of former service men. The 140th Infantry band is here from Kansas City for the state meeting. The 1,200 service men of Cole county form the local reception committee. Plans for entertaining the visiting delegates include an old-fashioned barbecue.

The delegations from both St. Louis and Kansas City have come to the state meeting determined to secure the state headquarters for their respective city, and a keen fight is expected to be waged on the convention floor. It is expected that a resolution will be passed by the convention asking the state legislature for an additional bonus of $15 a month for each month in service for all Missouri men who served in the army, navy and marine corps during the war with Germany.

As a result of the drive conducted during the latter part of September, a post of the American Legion has been organized in each of the 114 counties of the state, with several posts in the large cities. THE B. Y. P. U. PRESENTS A SPECTACULAR PROGRAM

Considering the threatening weather yesterday, we had a splendid day at the First Baptist church. There were 311 in Sunday school and good congregations at the hours of worship.

The pastor preached Sunday morning on the subject, "What is the greatest assurance of salvation," and at night the Senior B. Y. P. U. had charge of the preaching hour and rendered one of the best programs ever given in our church. There were sixty one present, and about ten of them took part on the program, and seats had been reserved for the others.

The building was packed almost to capacity and every one was highly pleased with the way the young people acquitted themselves.

The Four Minute Speakers for the services yesterday, in behalf of the Baptist Seventy-five Million Campaign, were Mr. S. P. Whitman, at the Sunday school, Mr. W. C. Duncan, at the morning service, and Mr. L. A. Ellison, at the night service.

The regular prayer meeting service will be on Wednesday evening at 8:00. We will study together, the fourth chapter of Genesis.—Clyde C. Morris, Pastor.

CLAUDE WEAVER'S HAT IS IN RING

RESIGNS AS POSTMASTER OF OKLAHOMA CITY TO RUN FOR CONGRESSMAN IN FIFTH DISTRICT.

By News Special Service
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 5.—Claude Weaver, candidate for the democratic nomination for representative in congress from the Fifth district, yesterday retired as postmaster of Oklahoma City. Weaver's resignation, which was made necessary by his entrance into the congressional race, was forwarded to Postmaster-General Burleson several days ago. John L. Graham, assistant postmaster, will act as chief of the office pending the selection of a successor to Weaver.

Weaver's resignation furnished the chief development of importance in the congressional situation during the past week, and precipitates a scramble for the appointment as his successor, which promises to bring out as big a field of starters as the congressional contest itself.

"My resignation was effective today. I will not return to the post-office again as postmaster," said Weaver last night.

It is considered highly probable in political circles that the appointment of a successor to Weaver will be withheld until after the selection of the new congressman so that the wishes of Congressman Thompson's successor may be consulted in the matter.

Weaver opened his campaign at his old home at Pauls Valley yesterday by presiding at the organization of a Weaver for Congress club, composed of 1,200 members, who signed the roll of membership. W. L. Farmer, mayor of Pauls Valley, and law partner of Mr. Thompson at the time of his death, is president and he was also chosen by Weaver as his general campaign manager.

Care Backs Weaver
Henry M. Carr of Pauls Valley withdrew from the contest early last week in favor of Weaver and is said actively to be backing the former postmaster's candidacy.

Other aspirants for the democratic nomination have been exceptionally active the past week, most of them spending the week out in the district speech making and getting into personal contact with the voters.

Republican candidates have been no less aggressive and yesterday's gossip developed the fact that John Embury, former county attorney, may enter the race at any time. Amos L. Wilson of Capitol Hill, and J. W. Harrell, so far are the only avowed candidates on the republican side. In the last issue of his paper, Wilson pitches his campaign on a platform of opposition to Jake L. Hamon for republican national committee.

Joy Knight in Race
Joy Knight of Wynnewood, member of the state senate, was the only new candidate to come out during the past week for the democratic nomination. Knight, who was in the army, was a candidate against Thompson in the last election and has started an aggressive campaign making a special plea for the soldier vote.

Tuesday is the last day allowed by law for the filing of candidates. Those who have not declared their intention of becoming candidates by that time cannot have their names placed upon the ballot. Filings close ten days before an election.

Samuel Gompers to Take Labor's Case to Church

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has accepted an invitation to attend the triennial convention of the Episcopal Church, which will open here October 8 and continue for two weeks. Mr. Gompers is one of a number of labor and capital leaders in America invited to address the noon-day open forum gatherings which will be a daily feature of the convention and which will deal with social service.

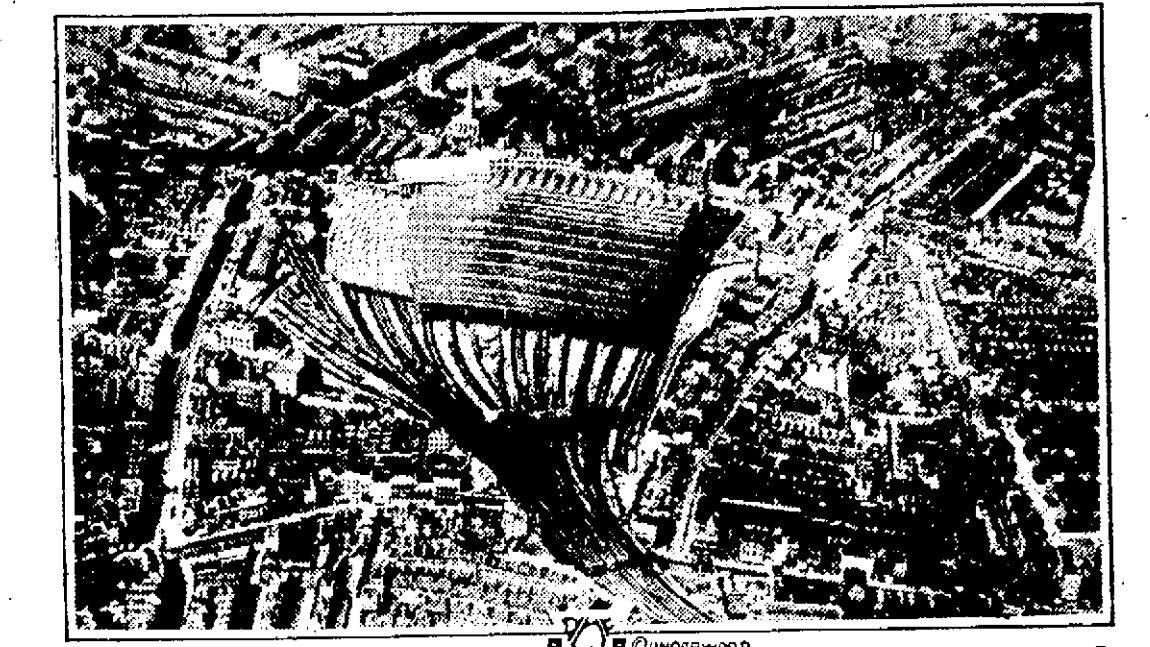

The aim of these meetings will be to bring into closer sympathy capital and labor and the presentation of common problems by leaders on both sides is expected to be one of the most interesting features of the great church meeting.

Miss Mary Van Kleeck of the Russell Sage foundation is expected to speak at a mass meeting on social service in its relation to women, her subject being "The New Industrial Position of Women."

Besides these speakers and General John J. Pershing and Vice Admiral Sims, other men of national fame are expected to address meetings of the convention. Among them are listed Rev. Orval A. Petty, chaplain of the base hospital at Bordeaux; Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, who will be a lay delegate; Brigadier General Lawrence D. Tyson of Knoxville, Tenn., commander of the 30th division in France, also a delegate; Hon. Bradford Prince, delegate from New Mexico and former governor and chief justice of that state; President Kenneth C. M. Sills of Bowdoin college; President William F. Pierce of Kenyon college and many of the leading bankers and industrial leaders of the country.

GREAT LONDON RAIL CENTER TIED UP BY STRIKE

The famous Waterloo station is one of the great terminals practically still since the general railroad strike was called in England, tying up transportation. Airplanes have been handling the mail as rapidly as possible since the strike was called.

CINCINNATI REDS ARE ALL PUFFED UP

TICKETS FOR TODAY'S GAME IN GREAT DEMAND; SCALPERS ARE DOUBLING THEIR MONEY.

By the Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Victorious in three of the first four games, the Cincinnati Reds were out today to take the fifth contest of the world's series, postponed yesterday, when a downpour of rain soaked the Comiskey field to such an extent that playing was impossible.

Indications from the White Sox camp today were that Manager Gleason's pitching selection was to be Claude Williams, who was beaten in the second game of the series at Cincinnati 4 to 2. It was possible, however, that Manager Gleason would make a last minute switch and send Bill James into the fray in an effort to stop the Reds. Manager Moran's pitching choice seemed to lie between Red Evers, who has been held in reserve, and Routhier, who defeated the Sox in the opening game at Cincinnati.

Although the White Sox have made a disappointing showing in the series, there has been no falling off of interest. The tickets are in as great demand today as ever and ticket scalpers with box seats in their possession are asking $10 for a seat costing $5.50.

The betting odds have undergone a big shakeup as a result of the Cincinnati victories and the supporters of the White Sox are asking odds on whatever wagers they make.

A Cycle

Christian spirit
Merely an outcast
Do unto others—
The humble citizen
Where poppies bluish
On a stretcher
Tonight

By W. Alexander Imlay

The Salvation Army was begotten of the Christian spirit and conceived in kindness.

It is the breath of graciousness upon the blighted spots in the social fabric.

It is a refuge of the wayward; the redemption of the fallen.

It is the organization that seeks by human kindness and gentle direction to arouse in degraded and hopeless manhood and womanhood a firm belief that "that something" may live to their betterment.

The hope that has been seared is healed; the life that has been scorched in the melting pot of the underworld is revived with the litanies of better living.

"What am I?" a gutter bum asked the rattler of the tambourine, "Merely an outcast—drunken and broken."

"You are wrong," the harbinger of salvation answered. "You are God's clay. You are the thing he evolved from chaos to better and beautify the world."

"Ha! Ha!" answered the outcast. "Me better the world? Me beautify it? I am of the gutter. I am of the filthy."

"Then you recognize the spark of divinity. All that you need is grip on yourself. You can be a man."

The Salvationist leaned forward in the attitude of a master psychologist. "You can be a man," he said tensely. "You will be a man."

"I will!" the gutter rat responded, and new light shone in his eyes.

The outcast of the gutter was warmed. He was fed. He was given a bed and clean clothing.

In the morning he was given light work. The story of his ups and downs belongs to the novelist. It is sufficient to say here that he was redeemed.

The humble citizen who is worth more than gold to his community steps from the porch of his modest home. A wife with shining hair follows him into the sunlight of morning.

His child prattling in the manner of babyhood follows him with out stretched arms.

In the manner of a true father he hesitates on the step. He caresses the child. He kisses the mother.

Love and happiness are radiated from the simple home scene. Proudly the wife watches the erect form of her husband swing up the street to his daily work.

It is the outcast.

It is in the gray light of morning. The lark's song is hushed. The ruddy poppies palpitate with the flush of blood.

A long dun line winds over a dur road. There is a flash of steel, a snatch of song. The mist whips from over the fields and the line has disappeared. It is in a trench.

Puffs of white clay above the staggered streak that marks the front line. They are shrapnel clouds. There is a lull in the noise. A lark springs toward heaven, breaks into song, then settles back.

An airplane circles, meets another. There is a burst of flame and it falls. The victor wheels toward home.

A thin line of men leap from the trenches. There is no sound other than the staccato beat of a machine gun. Men fall in tiny heaps. A few convulsive jerks and then—still.

The stretcher bearers bring in their wounded. Here is a boy—no more. He props himself upon one elbow and grins expectantly and gamely.

A lassie in the bonnet of the Salvation Army hands him a doughnut. With a gleam of bright teeth he bites into it.

"Um-mm" is his only expression. He is the son of the gutter rat.

Tonight—The rumble of traffic echoes up through the chasm of buildings in one of the great cities—in all of them from Buffalo to Punjab. Hawks cry their wares. Women laugh and children prattle to their elders.

There is a break in the traffic. A small group walks to the curb and takes its stand in the open street ignoring the shrill noises of the teeming city.

For a minute they kneel in prayer. The lingering spirit hovers near. Above the buzz of traffic they hear the voice of Christ ringing clear.

"Even as you have done unto others—"

The shrill pitch of voices cleaves the noise of the city. The beat of the tambourines floats through the early darkness.

It is the hallelujah song.

Thus they come through the dark, the noise, the flotsam and jetsam of humanity to listen to the beating tambourines.

MIKE'S BEEN KICKING FRED'S DOG AROUND

Complaint has been filed in Justice Brown's court against Mike Roe, charging him with cruelty to animals. The complainant in the matter is Fred Copeland, and both parties live in the Steedman community.

The facts as ascertained by the county attorney are as follows: Fred Copeland had a hound dog that was in the habit of paying unwelcome visits to the neighbors, and upon one occasion the dog went into the kitchen of the Roe family and made himself at home in the pantry. Mrs. Roe, irritated over depredations committed by the dog, forcibly ejected it from the house. That same night at about twelve, the Roes were awakened by a noise about the premises. Mr. Roe seized a loaded shotgun and walked into the kitchen and found a large dog in the act of springing through the kitchen window. The complaint filed with the judge recites the balance of the tragedy: "One Mike Roe, with malice aforethought and full and complete intent to kill, did shoot said dog unto death with a shot gun."

County Attorney Wayne Wadlington dismissed the case on the ground of justified homicide.

Around City Hall

Esias Edwards and one Mr. Cravatt were called before Mayor Kitchens to atone for their sins. They had imbibed too freely of the wholesale druggists' best seller. After making a full and complete confession and repenting of their waywardness, the mayor, always generous-hearted and willing to forgive, let them off for ten-seventy-five each.

Roy Stegall paid fourteen-seventy-five for the privilege of running his car faster than the public safety allows.

Fall Blouses Are Different

Along with other of our apparel for every day wear blouses have slipped into more elaborate styles than have characterized them for several seasons. Just now they reflect the rich and glorious colors of autumn foliage and presage a cheerful winter. Georgette crepe remains the favorite material for making them, and its texture robs the bright glowing colors used of any harshness. It has a refinement of its own to lend to any color.

Another style feature of the new fall blouses is the persistence of poppins on them, and still another is the combination of two colors of georgette in one blouse. Also there is a choice between several neck finishes. One may have a high, straight collar that buttons up the front or side, a rolling collar, a small sailor or cape collar or the round or "V" shaped, plain neck finish, without any collar.

The snuck made a great success in the summer, and hence the great number of blouses with poppins or short skirts. One of these is shown in the picture above, and he not dismayed

If your dealer shows it to you in a vivid nasturtium red or gold, or a warm purple or flashing turquoise blue. Make up your mind to array yourself like the lily of the field—or find yourself tamely appareled at 44¢ with more brilliant sisters who follow the trend of the mode.

The blouse pictured is embellished with embroidery, or more properly needle work, employing two colors, one of them black and the other matching the blouse. This touch of black tones down many a bright color in blouses. This blouse is gathered in at the waistline and a narrow ribbon, to match it, serves for a girdle. It is a slip-over model, which necessitates an elastic band for the waistline, unless it is provided with a casing having a ribbon run through it. The elastic band is more convenient and the girdle wears better when it is made to hook or snap together under a bow at the ends.

AUTOMOBILE BUSINESS IMPROVING IN CITY

The fact that the people of Ada are buying cars daily and placing orders for cars with local dealers that perhaps will not be delivered for months to come, is a barometer of the growing wealth and prosperity of this city.

With war demands for the output of automobile factories abated, automobile distributors of Ada are being insured more cars and better deliveries. But even with war's demand, passed into history, the commercial demand for cars has made the shortage of cars so acute that some of the dealers are almost having to move heaven and earth to procure deliveries.

Grant Irwin Awaits Delivery.

Grant Irwin, local agent for Buick cars, has complained for the past two months of not being able to get cars shipped him from the factories, which condition has lost him sales every week. However, he has now been promised a shipment of cars at a very early date, for which he is patiently waiting.

Harvey Secures Deliveries.

W. E. Harvey, local dealer for Ford cars, has made several trips to Oklahoma City recently in the interests of the Ford Agency and with the result of being insured a comfortable supply of cars ready for shipment each month, which enables customers to know at just about what date they may expect a delivery when placing an order. As a consequence of better deliveries, the Ford Agency reports the sale and delivery of the following Ford cars within the last ten days:

E. T. Pendleton, touring car; G. W. Young, touring car; R. H. Irwin, touring car; Oklahoma Power and Transmission Co., roadster; C. F. Bond, coupe; J. A. Mulder, truck; Judge Orel Busby, Sedan; The Texas Company, Roadster; G. W. Moran, touring; H. P. Sugg, coupe; John P. McKinley, touring; M. R. Dally, touring; Dr. M. J. Beets, sedan; T. J. Childress, touring; Dr. Breco, chassis; Newt Trout, roadster; N. L. Wesson, touring.

Overland Man Makes Kick.

A. M. Bailey, salesman for the Willys-Knight and Overland cars, made a trip last week to Oklahoma City in an effort to speed up delivery of cars that have been due from that place for the past two weeks. Mr. Bailey states that this shortage in cars, and postponed deliveries, seems to be the prevailing condition with dealers all over the country. But he states also that it looks as though it is the fellow who kicks the most and makes the biggest howl about deliveries who gets the quickest service, which accounts for his having put in his complaint to the factory at Oklahoma City.

W. N. Wray Goes to Detroit.

Walter Wray, of the Ada Motor Company, dealers in Dodge passenger cars and trucks, has just returned from two weeks spent in Detroit, Mich., speeding up deliveries on Dodge cars. Mr. Wray states that the immediate cause for slow deliveries just now is the present shortage in car bodies, brought on by the steel strike.

How Dealers Can Help.

Quick and concentrated action toward the relief of the threatening freight car shortage is being undertaken by the automobile industry. The efforts at present are being directed in loading and unloading and in preventing the holding of cars for "prospective movements."

As they did two years ago, when the freight car shortage reached an alarming stage, Dodge Brothers, Detroit motor car manufacturers, have asked their entire organization, which extends to virtually every locality in the United States, to co-operate in the "speed-up" campaign. A Dodge Brothers executive commented on the situation as follows:

"We have asked all our dealers to notify us by wire as soon as they discover that an automobile freight car or a string of cars is being unnecessarily held up. We are positive that hundreds of such cars on the sidings, particularly in the western districts. Presumably, these cars are being held for later consignment, but we must eliminate the 'later' and get these cars moving now. We emphasized our statement that dealers themselves should under no circumstances lose time in unloading and turning freight cars back to the railroads. If every trifling delay is eliminated the situation will be much less severe than the present outlook indicates and motor car dealers will benefit to a degree proportionate with their efforts to relieve the shortage."

It was added by the executive that there are fewer freight cars in active service now than at any time in the last three years.

The campaign undertaken by Dodge Brothers is in line with the advice of the director general of the railway administration, who conceded a few days ago that there was grave danger of a freight car shortage. In asking shippers to give their co-operation, he suggested prompt loading and unloading of freight cars, and hauling by motor truck as the most important means of affording relief.

MEET PATRONS FACE TO FACE

Mail Order Men Prefer to Sell at Long Distance Rather Than Deal With People in Their Own Cities.

(Copyright.)
One of the stock excuses of the man who orders goods from a mail order house is that there are many things that he wants that the local merchants do not carry in stock, and that it is necessary for him to send away from town to get them.

This explanation may be all right on the theory that a poor excuse is better than none, but it fails to pass muster when it is subjected to a little scrutiny.

Ask the man who offers this as an excuse for his dealings with the mail order man why he does not go to the local merchant and ask him to order the articles desired if they are not to be found in the merchant's stock. The merchant will very gladly do this, and the merchant and customer will both profit. The merchant can sell you whatever you desire at as low a price as the mail order house can make you on goods the same quality and he can make a small profit.

The customer will profit from the transaction, because he will be dealing with a merchant who stands back of the goods that he sells, and who is easily accessible in case the articles purchased do not prove to be all that the customer had expected.

Give Home Merchant Preference.

Why not try this plan the next time you need something which you cannot find in any of your home stores? The merchant in the average sized town cannot carry in stock everything that all of the people in his town may want at all times. It would require a capital many times larger than the average merchant can command to do this, but he does the best he can. He ordinarily does carry in stock at all times many things for which there is no general demand, in order that he may meet the needs of his customers to the greatest possible degree, but there is a limit to his purchasing ability. He is always ready and willing, however, to make every effort to meet the demands of the community. Why not, then, give him the preference over the far-distant mail order man if you must have something which is not to be found in the local stores? He will do the business in a satisfactory manner, give you as quick if not quicker service and more satisfactory treatment, and the chances are that he will give you better values for the money. Finally, whatever profit is to be made off the transaction will stay at home and do its bit toward making the merchant and his town and, incidentally, yourself, more prosperous.

No business can be transacted as satisfactorily at long range as it can when the two parties to the transaction meet face to face. The only exception to this rule is in the case of the mail order man himself, who can transact his business with greater success to himself at long distance than he could if he had to meet his customers face to face. That is the reason that he does business by mail instead of selling to the people in his own city. If the goods which the mail order man advertises in his alluring catalogues were the bargains that he represents them to be, he would not have to go outside of the confines of his own city to sell all the goods he could possibly obtain. But the average mail order house not only does not make any effort to sell goods in its own city, but will not sell to anyone residing within the city limits. The mail order man does not want to meet his customers face to face. He can do business better so far as he is concerned if his customer is some hundreds of miles away from his office.

Does Business in Open.

The man who sells goods over the counter, on the other hand, does business in the open. He cannot hide behind a corporate name or talk to a displeased customer from behind the locked doors of a private office. He knows that he must face the music in case he is a party to any transaction that won't stand the light of day. He knows that he must satisfy every customer with whom he may be dealing or he will lose not only that customer but probably others who will soon know all the facts if he does not do the square thing by buying one of his patrons.

There is no reason in the world for any person to send his money to a mail order house because he cannot find the article he wants in his local store. The local merchant is in business for the very purpose of getting you what you want. He has the information that will enable him to get what you want and to get it as quickly as you could get it from a mail order house. It is only fair to him to give him the chance to make such profit as any dealer would make off the transaction and it is only fair to yourself to keep that profit at home rather than to send it away to some far distant city from which it will never return.

SUNDRIES CHAPEL

Rev. J. G. Stone filled his regular appointment at the Chapel Sunday and as usual preached a very interesting sermon.

The revival meeting which has been going on for the past two weeks, closed Sunday night with a very large crowd.

Mr. Henry Jones and wife of Yeager attended church at the Chapel Saturday night and Sunday. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wood.

George Davidson and Miss Blanche Stone were quietly married last Wednesday evening. Rev. Bond spoke the word that made them man and wife. We want to extend to them our heartiest congratulations.

Most every body attended the big circus at Ada last week.

BRAZILIAN TRADE VERY ENCOURAGING

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 15. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The foreign trade of Brazil during the first half of 1919 is regarded as very encouraging. An increased exportation of some of Brazil's staple commodities, such as coffee, rubber, cacao, chilled beef hides, oil-bearing fruits, etc., as well as the high prices which these articles have commanded, leaves a very respectable trade balance. That Brazil has rapidly forced ahead commercially during the years of the war is generally conceded. The country's agricultural possibilities are as yet practically unexploited, and the war acted as a stimulus toward ascertaining the wide range of her productivity.

Brazil has been able to export to Europe foodstuffs which a few years ago, she was not able to supply herself. In the same way, and which point to making meat products one of the country's chief exports. While Brazil has always been a cattle-producing country, it is only during the last three or four years that she has been looked upon as a world supplier and even more recently several large modern packing houses have been constructed or projected. These are financed principally by American packing interests.

In the past year the federal government, through the agricultural department, has devoted considerable attention to the importation and purchase of animals of pure blood. It is proposed to carry on an extensive educational campaign among the livestock breeders of Brazil to improve the standard of cattle. For this purpose the government intends to make liberal money appropriations.

David Harrell, commissioner of the United States Department of Agriculture, accompanied by an assistant, has just arrived in Brazil to make an investigation of the cattle industry and give information to Brazilian cattle raisers regarding the importation of North American cattle.

Since then I have had no more backaches and no other trouble with my kidneys." Foley Kidney Pills stop sleep-disturbing bladder ailments and relieve rheumatic pains, sore muscles and swollen joints. Another Soldier Returned.

Chas. Foster, among the first of the Stonewall boys to enter the service, returned home this week. In January, 1918, Chas. Foster and Alva Odum boarded a train for Oklahoma City, and upon arrival enlisted in the United States Army. Both were assigned to overseas service, and all through the war these two Stonewall boys were together. During one of the many battles they went through, Odum received injuries which rendered him physically unfit for further service and several months ago he was discharged from the service and sent home. Foster, however, remained in the service and did not return to America until Gen. Pershing returned.—Stonewall News.

HOLLAND DRAINING THE ZUYDER ZEE

By the Associated Press

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 20.—Holland at last has begun work on its long-projected plan for reclaiming the land covered by the Zuyder Zee. This will mark the fulfillment of a Dutch dream of 70 years.

The scheme aims at recovering for tillage and pasture about 800 square miles flooded by the sea 700 years ago with a loss, it is said of 80,000 lives. The remaining 500 square miles of channel between the reclaimed portions of land will be turned into a fresh water lake fed by the River IJssel, a branch of the Rhine, and protected against the sea by a dyke 183 miles long between the Island of Wieringen and Piaam, on the coast of Friesland.

The reclaimed land will consist of four "polders" surrounding the lake. They are expected eventually to supply a living to nearly 250,000 persons. The work is to be spread over 20 years and will cost about $100,000,000.

During the last three generations the Dutch have added to their territory by reclamation 2,000 square miles.

When A Child Has Croup

Thousands of mothers say Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is the best remedy for croup they know. It cuts the thick choking mucus, clears away the phlegm, opens air passages and eases hoarseness. The gasping, straining fight for breath gives way to quiet breathing and peaceful sleep. T. J. McCall, Athens, O., writes: "We have used Foley's Honey and Tar in our home for years and find it invaluable for croup and colds—especially for croup for our children. We are never without it and cannot too highly recommend it." Sold everywhere. adv.

SUGAR NOT NECESSARY IN CANNING OF FRUIT

Don't let surplus fruit go to waste because you cannot obtain sugar to use for preserving purposes. Fruit can be successfully canned without it and it can be sweetened when served next winter, or syrup can be used in place of sugar to sweeten it now.

To can without sugar, simply fill the jars containing the fruit with clean hot water, instead of the usual syrup, and process the jars in a hot-water bath. The fruit will not spoil, but it will not have quite as fine a flavor and color as that which is packed in syrup.

Directions for canning by the "cooked-in-the-can" method should be carefully followed to can successfully without sugar, the United States Department of Agriculture suggests.

Fruits canned without sugar are especially good in salads, desserts, pie fillings, ices and in fruit punches. They can also be made into jams and marmalades when sugar is obtainable. Fruit juices, also, no sugar and their uses are almost as varied during the winter season as are the fruits put up in the summer. These fruit juices are available for jelly at a future time, without sugar is more plentiful. Vegetables need no sugar, and plenty of canned vegetables are available.

During the winter, the acquisition of every loyal member of the Red Cross forms a bulwark of strength far surpassing any possible good that could be gained through general money donations.

It would, therefore, be detrimental to the spirit and policy of the Red Cross to seek wholesale memberships through war or community chests. The use of the Red Cross name in connection with such movements would tend only to confusion of the public mind and would lessen greatly the force of the individual call to membership.

PRINTERS ALL GO BACK TO OLD JOBS

OKLAHOMA CITY, WITHOUT A NEWSPAPER FOR WEEK, IS NOW BACK TO NORMAL.

By News' Special Service
OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 6.—After a forced suspension of publication for five days, due to a strike of the printers, The Daily Oklahoman resumed publication yesterday morning.

When E. L. Traylor of Kansas City, representative of the International Typographical Union, faced the striking printers of local union No. 253 at their meeting Saturday evening and told them that their charter would be lifted and the standing of every printer with the International destroyed unless the workers changed front, the men voted unanimously to return to their jobs under the same conditions that existed before they left the composing rooms of the newspapers on Monday.

State of Iowa Is Far Short on School Teachers

By the Associated Press
DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 6.—Iowa has fully 1,000 fewer school teachers than needed to meet the state's demand, according to P. R. McClenahan, state superintendent of public instruction. The situation is not peculiar to Iowa. Supt. McClenahan states, as he has received inquiries from other states about where teachers may be obtained.

Iowa school boards are not only offering more money to teachers than ever before, but in many communities where consolidated school buildings are being constructed, houses for the teachers are being erected.

Mr. McClenahan says the change is shown by a recent statement of a member of an Iowa educational board. That man said a few years ago the board required applicants for a teachers position to submit a photograph. Now the same board does not ask that, and is sending out to prospective applicants, and to teachers and teachers' agencies generally, literature boasting the town, photographs of the school buildings, and information reciting the advantages of living in that community.

Educational institutions of the state have reported that in some instances this fall the enrollment of young women has fallen off due to the demand for teachers and the fact that many girls are postponing their college education to teach this year.

BIG EPISCOPAL MEET AT DETROIT

SOCIAL SERVICE SESSION TO BE ADDRESSED BY GEN. PERSHING AND SAMUEL GOMPERS.

By the Associated Press
DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—The triennial convention of the Episcopal church of America, to be held here October 8 to 27, is said to be one of the most important church gatherings ever arranged. It will bring together Episcopal clergy and laymen from all parts of the world and its meeting on social service will be addressed by men prominent in church, labor and industrial work, including Samuel Gompers, Vice Admiral Sims and General John J. Pershing.

The convention of the Episcopal church sits in two sections, the house of bishops and the house of clerical and lay deputies. The consent of both is required for legislation. Rt. Rev. Thomas Frank Gailor, bishop of Tennessee will preside over the house of bishops. Rt. Rev. Charles Henry Brent, bishop of western New York and chaplain general of the American Expeditionary Forces in France, will be among the members of the house of bishops and will preach the opening sermon of the convention.

Questions to be brought before the convention include a proposal to change the marriage service in recognition of the new status of woman by eliminating the promise of obedience now required by women. Several important changes in the Book of Common Prayer are also contemplated and will be decided on by the convention. Another matter to be considered will be the proposed change in the prayer for the president of the United States. It is also proposed to draft new prayers for the army and navy, courts of justice, state legislatures, all who labor, for social justice and for the stewardship of wealth.

ARK. BLACKS HAD BIG MURDER PLOT

SOLDIERS AND OFFICERS AMAZED AT WHOLESALE MURDER PLAN WHICH HAS BEEN UNRAIDED.

By the Associated Press
HELENA, Ark., Oct. 6.—In an effort to capture Ed Were, alleged ringleader, and a band of twenty insurgent negroes, believed to be still at large following last week's disorders, three hundred soldiers at daylight today were thrown out in a cordon surrounding an area of approximately 35 square miles in the southern part of Phillips county.

Following the disclosure yesterday of a plot by the blacks to launch a general slaughter of the white population in the county today, it was stated that men on the list to be shot down in the uprising were prominent plantation owners of the county. Committeemen expressed amazement at the detail with which the coup had been planned and organized with the names of prospective victims set down in writing and a certain date selected for the slaughter. Although seven prominent men had been named for the initial onslaught, the entire list showed a total of twenty-one names including merchants and other business men from whom a "settlement" was to be demanded.

Negro couriers designated as "Paul Reivers" had been selected according to the confessions and these were to spread a general call to arms when the negroes, presenting their demands, shot down the seven whites whom they approached on the pretense of negotiations.

is easy compared to turning the doughnuts into dough as did the Salvation Army.

This principle applies with equal force to making men's clothes for while any concern can turn a bolt of cloth into a batch of clothes—it takes high-powered ingenuity and much tedious needle work to transform a piece of raw material into the beautifully designed models that we have here this fall in Michaels-Stern Suits and Top Coats at—

ADA YOUNG LADY GETS HIGH TEACHING HONOR

Miss Leone Steed, of this city, left yesterday for Tahlequah where she has just been honored with the position of assistant professor of history in the North Eastern State Normal at that place.

This is the first Normal school position an East Central graduate has yet been elected to, and the appointment of Miss Steed comes as a distinct, and at the same time a well deserved, honor. Miss Steed was born and reared in Ada and her many friends here are elated at her elevation.

Miss Steed is a graduate of East Central, has had one year at Randolph-Macon at Lynchburg, Va., and has her A. B. degree from the University of Oklahoma.

Miss Steed took her entire history training under Dr. Rolla G. Sears, professor of history in East Central, and it is quite natural that he, too, along with her many other friends, is congratulating her on her excellent prospects of success in her chosen profession.

JOHN RAWLS BAGS 3 RUNAWAY YOUNGSTERS

Chief of Police John Rawls ran onto three stray boys down in the railroad yards yesterday and immediately perceived that they were more or less desperate characters. He immediately bagged the whole crowd and found out that they had just recently escaped from the Sacred Heart Catholic school near Shawnee and had walked from Konawa to Ada in the forenoon.

The youngsters gave their names and addresses to a News reporter as Henry Martin of Okemah, 15; Delbert Brown of Merrimac, 12; and Bernard Burks of Edmond, 12. They didn't seem to know where they were going but they were on their way. What they wanted most was to get as far as possible from the "sisters" who teach the incorrigibles at the Sacred Heart school.

They stated that the place was more like a jail than a school and that the confinement, lack of sufficient food and clothing and other mistreatment they alleged had induced them to make their escape. They were destitute and poorly clad so the chief took up a free for all collection about the streets and with the funds so collected bought tickets and consigned each one to the respective addresses given as their homes.
